TO: Members of Hennepin County Board

Yesterday, unsolicited and totally unexpected, I learned of the Hennepin County Board action noted on the reverse of this letter.

This came as a shock to me, since for a number of months, culminating within the last couple of weeks, I was attempting to ferret out the history of the Minneapolis/Hennepin County Declaration of World Citizenship March 5, 1968, and trying to find out the date the UN flag flew proudly beside the U.S. flag at the City Hall. That turned out to be May 1, 1968. Many of the details are in the enclosure. The keynote speaker that day was Gov. Elmer L. Andersen, who thought his speech on the importance of the UN and World Citizenship was so important that he included it in his book, "I Trust to be Believed", edited by Lori Sturdevant and published shortly before his death in 2004. The speech in question is at pages 151-152 in the brief chapter on World Citizenship.

In your action a few months ago you essentially destroyed the essence of a bipartisan and very carefully discussed decision for Minneapolis and Hennepin County to become, most likely, the first community in the United States to declare themselves World Citizens.

It appears that you relied on erroneous interpretation of the U.S. Flag Code as well. I can see nothing in that code that renders what was first done May 1, 1968, in front of Minneapolis City Hall, to be improper by even the strictest reading of the code (the violation of which, by the way, carries no penalty. The issue is freedom of speech.)

I am not a scholar of parliamentary procedure, but it appears that four of you continue on the Board who voted for the Resolution last March. It would be a simple matter to bring this matter up for reconsideration and reverse your earlier decision. Cynically, you could essentially hide it from public view, as you apparently did last March as well.

As for myself, while I've lived in Minnesota for 49 of my 72 years, including 39 in the Twin Cities, I have never been a resident of either Minneapolis or Hennepin County. So I have no formal standing. At the same time, I am not naive, either, and in my limited spheres, I am going to do my best to call this matter to public attention. I have much more to say about this history, with or without your interest.

Reverse your decision.
